that we make a house-to-house canvass of those likely to subscribe small sums, a dollar for instance, but my belief in that the cost of the collection in many instances would be greater than the amount subscribed. Most of those who contributed the thousands which we have received have done so without attaching any conditions, and without even asking to have tickets sent to them. It is remarkable how many small sums have come to us from different parts of the country.

Considerable comment has been heard on many sides as to whether the distribution of the money which is being collected by the various municipal dipartments of the city poveranent was to be a considerable comment has been heard on many which is being collected by the various municipal dipartments of the city poveranent was to be a considerable considerable. Mayor cliron was affect yesternay about the matter, and he replied that the question seemed to imply an immende which really didn't deserve an answer. There has never been a thought in my mind, said he, "of having politics enter into the distribution of reflef, and I will go further and say that such an idea could only have found lodgment in the evil minds of those who susgested such a question." The Mayor said that he would call a meeting of the committee early next week, when plans would be decided upon. Aquedict Commissioner Francis M. We have made a proposition to the Board of Education to allow us to appeal for aid to the children of the public schools, through their principals, and hope we will be successful. If allowed, we shall ask each child to bring to school every morning one points and a piece of bread. With an attendance of 150,000, it would produce what would be equivalent to $6,000 loaves of bread and $600 bushels of potatoes daily. Our committee will undertake to provide transportation for the food thus supplied from the different schools to the missions and soup houses, where it could be given to the have their churchy and appeal to the ministers to have their churchy.

BLOCKED BY DEMOCRATIC APATHY.

From The New-York Recorder
The Democratic majority in Congress gets back to its work tardily. Professor Wilson's grasp on the heim of the situation is manifestly weak and uncertain. His intention to take up the Tariff bill and begin debate upon it on Wednesday was blocked by reason of the anathy of his fellow Democrate, who felled to attend in sufficient numbers to make the indispensable quorum. There were enough of them in Washington, too, but they were not as deeply concerned about Professor Wilson's master-piece of legislation as to take the trouble to be present when it was called up. Annin yesterslay the same indifference was shown to Professor Wilson's bill, and it seems probable now that the House majorit's will not get together for real work on it until Monday next.

Captain Luther J. Briggs, who died on Thursday at the home of his granddaughter, No. 168 Livingston-st., Brooklyn, was a picturesque relic of a rahis father. Captain John Briggs. At eighteen he was mate, and at twenty-one master of a vessel. Those were the days when the New-Bedford whalling fleet was making the fame of the little town, and Captain Briggs added thereto by bringing home, after a two years' cruise, the largest cargo of whale-oil ever landed. His vessel was one of the first to bring gold as freight from California.

Later he entered the fast-packet service between New-York and Liverpool, sailing as master for such companies as the Black Bail Line, the Dramatic Line, Grinnell, Minturn & Co., and the Kingslands. He left the sea twenty-five years ago with the rather remarkable record of never having lost a vessel in forty years.

In his later life Captain Briggs was for some years in the Engineers' Bureau of the Brooklyn Department of City Works, under the commission-ership of the late Ripley Ropes. Captain Briggs married Miss Mary B. Thornton, of New-Bedford, a descendant of that Russell who founded the town. Two sons survive him.
